TIME TO TALK

What is the value of the term?

Kindness

- How can we be kind to our friends?
- How can we show kindness to others at home?
- Can you show a random act of kindness?

Why is it important to put your phones away and talk with your children?

Stronger Emotional Bonding: Face-to-face interaction during routines like meals, playtimes, and bedtime stories helps children feel valued, safe, and emotionally connected to their caregivers. When parents are frequently distracted by their phones (known as technoference), children can experience feelings of rejection, neglect, anxiety, or low self-esteem. Eye contact, facial expressions, and body language teach children how to read emotions and social signals, which they miss when an adult's attention is fixed on a screen.

Tea time talk

Is there a difference between being polite and being kind?

If someone is mean to you, is the kindest choice to walk away or to forgive them?

Can you be kind to someone but choose not to be their best friend?

Encourage children to justify their opinions.
